

LAWYER'S BODY FOUND.

John H. Miller, 3800 West 12th Street, New York City, was found yesterday on the shore near Fort Wadsworth. It was identified by his mother, Josephine Miller, who said Miller had disappeared from his temporary residence at 3800 West 12th Street, New York City, about the death of his wife a year ago, and was said to have lost money lately. He was born in 1880 and lived for a time at New Rochelle. The body was taken to the City Park Coroner's morgue at New York City.

VIOLINIST WEDS WIDOW OF MILLIONAIRE CHURCH

Joseph Urdang and His Bride Are Now on a Trip Through the South.

URDANG-CHURCH—Joseph Urdang, the New York violinist, who married the late Mrs. E. Dwight Church of Brooklyn, N. Y., the above notice published yesterday in a Brooklyn newspaper caused considerable comment among acquaintances of Mrs. Marie Louise Church, widow of the millionaire baking soda manufacturer. Mr. Church died in 1908. The couple had seven children, three of whom have lived lately with their mother in New York. The marriage took place last week, the day could not be learned. Mr. and Mrs. Urdang have gone on a trip through the South. The ceremony, performed in St. Ann's Church on Columbia Heights, was kept a secret, only a few intimate friends of the bride and bridegroom being present. Mr. Urdang is connected with Walter Damrosch's New York Symphony Orchestra.

E. Dwight Church left a library which was sold by his executors for $1,200,000.

Governor Arthur Capper Says He Wouldn't Live Here Because There's No Individuality—Mrs. Capper Says Votes for Women Will Make Better State, With Safer and Happier Homes—National Prohibition Coming Soon.

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

"WHAT is the matter with New York?" I asked Mrs. Arthur Capper. And the wife of the Governor of Kansas flinched back at me: "There is nothing the matter with New York—New York is all right." But the lean, blue-eyed Governor of the State which made William Allen White inquire so many years ago, "What's the matter with Kansas?" is not as sure as Mrs. Capper that we have a 100 per cent. place to live in. In fact, he can think of lots of ways in which we might go to Kansas, observe and do likewise.

The Cappers are in New York looking us over. They like us, but Gov. Capper told me that he would not care to live here permanently; that no man has as much identity in New York as he gets by twenty years' residence in Topeka, for instance. The Governor of Kansas came to New York and to the Hotel Majestic, where this double-barreled interview took place. Mrs. Capper had spent several weeks at Allenhurst, N. J., before joining him here.

In discussing her stay at Allenhurst, Mrs. Capper said smilingly: "I noticed that the hotel knitters were knitting for themselves. The yarn they used was pink or blue or purple. In Kansas you see as many knitters as you do here, but the yarn is always army gray or navy blue."

Mrs. Arthur Capper has the unusual distinction of being the daughter of one war Governor of Kansas and the wife of another, as her father ruled the cock-pit of anti-slavery agitation during the Civil War. Gov. Capper is the first native son to govern Kansas, by the way. He was born near Osawatomie and his father was a follower of John Brown.

"Have you been in any of our restaurants along Broadway?" I asked. "I have," Mrs. Capper answered, "and I noticed that there is a great deal of drinking by men and women. We never see that in Kansas, which is a Prohibition State. I was astonished by the number of women I saw smoking cigarettes. We don't have women who smoke in Kansas at all."

"Suppose," I said, "a woman should light a cigarette in Topeka; what would happen to her?" "The women would boycott her," Gov. Capper answered for his wife. "They oppose the consumption of tobacco by men even, and I hate to think what they would say of a woman who tried to smoke."

"We are not provincial in Kansas," Mrs. Capper hastened to explain. "Kansas people are great travellers. Many of them buy their clothes in the East. There is absolutely no difference in the way women dress. But there is no drinking. A Kansas hostess would just as soon offer a guest a hypodermic of morphine as a drink containing alcohol."

"We have Prohibition and Woman Suffrage," she continued, proudly, "and a larger percentage of our people own their own homes than in any other State in the Union. We have more automobile owners too. Mr. Capper is the owner of the Topeka Capital, which employs 150 men, and there are so many automobiles belonging to employees in front of the office that it is often difficult for our car to find a place to stand."

"I doubt if there is a millionaire in Kansas," Gov. Capper continued to the conversation at this point. "Our largest incomes are probably $12,000 or $15,000 a year. But we have no extreme poverty as you have in New York, and a man can make himself comfortable in Kansas as he rarely does here. We have more room for development."

"WHY, when I got through school I went from the little town of Garnett to Topeka to look for work. I had learned typesetting during my vacations and I went to the office of The Capital, the paper I own to-day, and asked for a job. Kansas was not a Prohibition State then. It was pay-day in the Capital office, and half the printers had gone off to get drunk. So the foreman took me on. I made $25 a week from the start, setting type. But in a year the owner of the women's vote in Kansas was introduced and successful in every field," he added. "Better men are elected and better laws are enacted because women vote. Women and children are safer and homes are better protected since women took a hand in our government. All the political parties believe in Woman Suffrage to-day in Kansas. Why, if the question were submitted to the people again it would be voted unanimously."

"It may be some time before you see in New York," the Governor added when I asked him what he thought of our chances to have the amendment voted in November. "All the liquor interests are against you and all the big business organizations."

"It is business co-operation that has insured the success of Prohibition," he added. "All the employers of large bodies of men to-day favor Prohibition as an efficiency measure and not on moral grounds."

"When you came in you asked me what was the matter with New York," Mrs. Capper remarked, "and said New York was all right. But I think it would be better to say New York will be 'it right' when it makes its women as free as we are in Kansas."

CONEY CARNIVAL TO-NIGHT.
Week of Fun on the Island Will Open With a Parade.
"Coney's Dream" is the theme of the fifteenth annual Mardi Gras, which opens with a parade at Coney Island at 8 o'clock to-night. That you will awake from to-night's "dream" wanting more, is promised by the Royal Order of Moose, which will be in charge of the opening day.

The parade will consist of twelve illuminated and decorated floats, twenty-five brass bands and five drum corps, and about 500 persons in costumes guaranteed to be startlingly original. Coney is preparing to entertain 2,000,000 visitors during the week's

GIRL STUDENT MISSING.

The family and friends of Miss Catherine Armstrong, 1000 East Twenty-second Street, Brooklyn, are hopeful that someone will give up the result of her disappearance at the Y. W. C. A. It is now estimated that the missing girl went to Haystack Prison and the friends there, and a B. H. T. the person who knew her name that following this will be seen to have an accident train at Thirty-third Street.

Corns Lift Off

Doesn't hurt a bit to lift any corn or callus off with fingers.

No burning! You truly can lift off every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, as well as hardened calluses on bottom of feet without use of pain.

A genius in Cincinnati discovered freemove. It is an ether compound and the bottles of this magic fluid can now be had at any drug store for a few cents.

Apply several drops of this freemove upon a tender, aching corn or a callus. Instantly all soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so shriveled and loose that you lift it off with the fingers. You feel no pain while applying freemove or afterwards.

Just think! No more corns or calluses to torture you and they go without causing one twinge of pain or soreness.

Keep a tiny bottle of freemove on the dresser and never let a corn or callus ache twice.—Advt.

Columbia Mid-Month Specials

Here are some records that we couldn't wait until the end of the month to bring out. Their names will tell you something, but hearing them played will explain why we announce them as Mid-Month Specials.

From Me to Mandy Lee is a duet coupling the alternately commanding tenor voices of Campbell and Burr, while the cello moans a plaintive obbligato. If you like tenor duets you will want this record. On the reverse, Irving Kaufman sings a vigorous solo, I'm All Bound 'Round with the Mason Dixon Line. Note the way the title sings itself.
